Class Action

Krista F. Holt provides consulting services specific to class action lawsuits. She and her professional staff offer a unique combination of deep experience in commercial damages, survey tools geared toward gaining relevant, defensible information on large populations of consumers and statistical capabilities to manage, extract and clearly present crucial data.

Krista Holt consults on matters of class certification, applying her years of real world commercial experience to provide assistance in the determination and defense of appropriate class definitions. Using her experience in the use of surveys in the litigation context, she can expertly manage the process of identifying and certifying class members. Ms. Holt's stature as an accepted and recognized expert in fields such as marketing and economics allows her to assist your case in the areas of liability determination and the calculation of damages resulting from both past and potential future harm. Her team can also combine surveying procedures with the application of powerful statistical and econometric techniques to extrapolate losses to the class from known incidences of the alleged unlawful acts.
